

Clinical Pathologist, Biobest Laboratories Ltd, Edinburgh, UK

We have a vacancy for a Clinical Pathologist to join our veterinary team in a busy diagnostic laboratory based just outside Edinburgh. This post will continue the growth and expansion of our clinical pathology service which was launched in October 2011.

We are looking for an experienced Clinical Pathologist with a post-graduate qualification in Clinical Pathology (FRCPath, DipECVCP, DipACVP etc). Consideration would also be given to eligible examination candidates and to those with a post-graduate qualification in Internal Medicine. Interest or experience in farm animal laboratory testing would also be an advantage and we would consider applicants whose principle expertise is in this area.

You would join our team of 5 vets and would take the lead in providing our clinical pathology service which complements our long standing infectious disease testing service. You will perform cytological and haematological examinations and participate in the reporting and interpretation of diagnostic submissions across all disciplines in clinical pathology and clinical microbiology as well as providing telephone support and consultation. We maintain strong collaborative links with local academic institutions and the potential exists to develop this further for case discussion and personal development. Biobest has an excellent reputation for customer service and quality and the clinical pathologist will be instrumental in maintaining this for the clinical pathology service.

The role will also involve the active marketing of our services to local practices to build on our existing client base. This will include hosting local CPD events, representing Biobest at appropriate conferences, preparation of marketing materials in conjunction with our administrative team, and visiting local practices.

The position is permanent and is available from December 2012. It will be based on-site at our laboratories and offices on the Edinburgh Technopole, a Science Park 8 miles from Central Edinburgh. We offer a competitive salary according to qualifications and experience, bonus scheme, funding for CPD, up to 35 days paid holiday per year and a company pension scheme. This is an exciting opportunity to become actively involved in the growth and success of an established business.

Please contact Dr Paul Burr (paul.burr@biobest.co.uk) for further details, informal discussion about the role, or an application pack. The closing date for applications is 16Nov12.
