LABORATORIES

IDEXX Laboratories, Inc. is a leader in pet healthcare innovation, serving practicing veterinarians around the world with a broad range of diagnostic and information technology-based products and services. IDEXX products enhance the ability of veterinarians to provide advanced medical care, improve staff efficiency and build more economically successful practices.

We are looking for an

ECVCP/ACVP Board Certified Veterinary Clinical Pathologist (m/f)

(creative thinker, curious mind, determined leader and problem solver) to join our team in Germany.

The successful candidate for this position will participate in a variety of roles and activities, which include diagnostic cytology (masses, fluids, bone marrow) and hematology (interpretation of complicated blood smears) as well as consultation with our customers on the phone. Reporting and consultation can be in English, any additional language with reporting ability is an advantage. We currently report in German, English, Italian, Dutch and French. For training and educating a team of Laboratory technicians at least basic German language skills are mandatory. Presentation to customers can also be an aspect of the work.

The company is willing to support you in your goal to learn German by offering language training tuition.
